Washington's Plague Spots.

lie in the low, marshy bottoms of the Potomac, the breeding ground of malaria germs. These germs cause chills, fever and ague, biliousness, jaundice, lassitude, weakness and general debility, and bring suffering or death to thousands yearly. But Electric Bitters never fail to destroy them and cure malaria troubles. "They are the best all-around tonic and cure for malaria I ever used," writes R. M. James, of Louellen, S. C. They cure stomach, liver, kidney and blood troubles and will prevent typhoid. Try them, 50c. Guaranteed by all dealers.

LANDSAW.

J. M. Swango has been on the sick list for some time.

All the voters in this section attend the convention at Campton Saturday.

C. H. Loveland will get his big boiler in this week, and then he will be ready to start up work. He will use a hand mill.

Mrs. Roe Wood, who was reported as giving birth to a girl, is very sick, and the attending physician, Dr. Center, fears a bad case of fever.

The completion of the Hurst school house is expected this week. K. M. Halsey, the teacher, informs us that he will commence teaching as soon as it is completed.

John Dalton, who went to Middletown, Ohio, about two weeks ago in search of work, returned home Sunday, and reports things at that place very discouraging.

W. H. Dean and family visited the family of Francis Madden last Sunday and report a good time, as they had apples and watermelons set before them frequently during the day.

Howard Miller left last week for Middletown, Ohio, thinking that he might find a better place than old Kentucky. But we believe he will be like the rest of the boys and return.

Joe Rose, of Hazel Green, was here Sunday with James Ratliff, whom he had arrested on a charge of highway robbery. Mr. Ratliff filled bond and his trial set for Wednesday before Squire Brooks, at Hazel Green.

A very sad accident happened here last Friday. Lightning struck the house of John Taulbee, who lives on the farm of E. T. Kash. There seemed to be two bolts, one striking the upper gable, tearing it and the loft away and striking the cook room, and the other striking the top of the chimney, bursting it from top to bottom, and struck Mrs. Taulbee on the right hip, and running to her foot. She is in a bad condition. The house was set on fire, and did some damage.

Be sure and take a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy with you when starting on your trip this summer. It cannot be obtained on board the trains or steamers. Changes of water and climate often cause sudden attacks of diarrhoea, and it is best to be prepared. Sold by all dealers.

BOOST.

Do you know there's lots of people 'Settin' round in every town, Growlin' like a broody chicken, Knockin' every good thing down, Don't you be that kind o' cattle, 'Cause they ain't no use on earth, Just you be a booster rooster, Crow and boost for all you are worth.

If things don't just go to suit you, An' the world seems kinder wrong, What's the matter with a boostin' Just to help the thing along? 'Cause if things should stop a goin' We'd be in a sorry plight, You just keep that horn a blowin' Boost'er up with all you might.

If you see some feller tryin' For to make some project go, You can boost it up a trifle, That's your cue to let him know, That you're not a goin' to knock it Just because it ain't your shout, But you're goin' to boost a little 'Cause he's got the best thing out.

Dysentery is a dangerous disease but can be cured. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has been successfully used in nine epidemics of dysentery. It has never been known to fail. It is equally valuable for children and adults, and when reduced with water and sweetened, it is pleasant to take. Sold by all dealers.

Langley and Lumber Tariff.

Congressman Langley has received the following very complimentary letter from Congressman J. W. Fordney, of Michigan, who led the fight against free lumber in the House, and who recognized Mr. Langley as one of his chief lieutenants in the fight. It is evident from the contents of this letter that Mr. Langley did yeoman service in the fight for protection to lumber, and the statement that but for what he did the entire duty would probably have been removed, is evidence that he fully kept his pledge to the people in this respect:

SIXTY-FIRST CONGRESS, Committee on Ways and Means, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., July 20, 1909.

HON. J. W. LANGLEY, House of Representatives: Dear Mr. Langley—I deem it only just to you that your constituents who are interested in the protection of the lumber industry should know the great service that you have rendered them in connection with the framing of the new tariff bill.

From the very beginning of the controversy, you were recognized as one of the foremost champions of the lumber industry in the House, and your extensive acquaintance with the membership and thorough familiarity with the subject made you one of the most effective workers for the lumber duty.

It is with no intention to disparage the efforts of many others who aided in the fight, when I say that if what you alone accomplished had been left undone, it would probably have resulted in the free lumber provision going into the House bill, and with such a provision in that bill, I doubt very much whether lumber could have been kept on the dutiable list in the Senate. At any rate, I am sure those of us who believe in protection to the lumber industry have reason to rejoice that you were returned to the 61st congress, and of course we all hope and believe that your constituents will fully appreciate your work in their behalf and keep on returning you as long as you desire to remain in congress.

With kindest personal regards and lasting assurances, I am, very sincerely yours,

J. W. FORDNEY.

JUDICIAL CONVENTION.

At a meeting of the Democratic Executive committee of the 23rd Judicial district of Kentucky, held in the town of Jackson, Ky., on the 14th day of August, 1909, for the purpose of fixing the time, place and manner of nominating candidates for the offices of Circuit Judge and Commonwealth's Attorney for said district, to be voted for at the regular November election, 1909.

On motion, F. P. Crawford, of Breathitt county, was made chairman, and A. B. Cox, of Wolfe county, secretary.

On motion and by vote it is ordered that mass meetings be held at each of the county seats of the counties of Lee, Breathitt, Estill and Wolfe, at the hour of 1 o'clock p. m., on Saturday, August 21, 1909, to select delegates to attend a district convention to be held at Campton, Ky., at the hour of 1 o'clock p. m., on Tuesday, August 24, 1909, to select Democratic candidates for the above named offices.

At the county mass meetings of known Democrats and known legal voters who will pledge themselves to support the nominees of said district convention may participate.

Each county shall have the number of votes in the district convention as is provided for by the party rules adopted at the last state convention.

F. P. CRAWFORD, Chairman.
W. M. GOOKEY, J. C. PORTS.
A. B. COX, Secretary.

CANDIDATES' ASSESSMENTS.

Campton, Aug. 21, 1909.
At a meeting of the Democrats of Wolfe county on the 2nd day of August, 1909, in the town of Campton, for the purpose of effecting an organization preparatory to the campaign for the ensuing November election, on motion, Hon. J. M. Tester was elected chairman and G. B. Stamper secretary of said meeting.

On motion, A. C. Oliver, T. F. Stamper and J. T. Hanks were appointed as a campaign committee.

Said committee retired and brought in the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Democrats of Wolfe county, in mass meeting assembled, that the Democratic nominees for the various offices of the county should be assessed a reasonable amount for the purpose of defraying the necessary expenses of said campaign, etc., and that it is at present uncertain as to which of said nominees shall have opposition, if any; and in order to show to the common enemy that the Democrats of this county, and especially the Democratic nominees, mean to present a solid front in waging this fight and insuring the election of the whole ticket in case any nominee should have opposition, the following candidates are assessed the sum set opposite to their names, which amount is to be paid to the campaign committee on or before the 15th day of October, 1909:

County Judge, W. B. Duff, $400; Sheriff, G. W. Sally, $400; County Attorney, S. G. Sample, $300; County Clerk, R. L. Carroll, $400; Circuit Clerk, J. C. Lindon, $400; County Superintendent, J. W. Tally, $300; Assessor, J. T. Center, $300; Jailor, J. C. B. Little, $300.

J. M. TESTER, Chairman.
G. B. STAMPER, Secretary.

Jeffersonian Barbecue.

The Jeffersonian Barbecue, to be given to the Democrats of Kentucky by the Democrats of Louisville, will be the biggest and happiest gathering of the kind ever seen in Kentucky, and it is predicted that fully seventy-five thousand people will attend both days' festivities. The big meet will be pulled off August 31 and September 1 at the State Fair grounds in Louisville. Every prominent Democrat in Kentucky, as well as many Democrats of National prominence will be present, and it is safe to predict that speeches will be made upon this occasion that will live in the memory of man for many years.

The committee announces that it will be able to feed one hundred thousand people. Burgoo and barbecued meat will be made under the supervision of Gus Jaubert, a barbecue man of national reputation.

All the railroads in the state have made a rate of one fare plus 25 cents.

On the night of August 31 will be seen the grandest display of fireworks ever witnessed in Louisville, which will be followed by a big commercial parade.

The Democracy of Louisville extend an invitation to every Democrat in Kentucky to attend the Jeffersonian Barbecue, and insure every man who attends that he will see something and hear something that will do him good. The Democrats of the state are preparing for the great battles of the future, and this barbecue is to be held for the purpose of bringing the Democrats of Kentucky together in a sort of consultation, preparatory to the onslaught which is to be made on the Republican party, because of its incompetency and misrule in matters of state and nation, as well as in the municipal affairs of Louisville.

Remember the days: August 31 and September 1.

Montgomery County Fair, August 31 to September 4.

The great Montgomery County Fair will be held in Mt. Sterling on the above dates. Brightest, biggest and best fair in the state. Trotting, pacing and running races every day for good purses. New grand stand, new floral hall, new stables, and the best half mile track in the state. No more attractive grounds can be seen, and they are within four squares of the court house. Liberal premiums offered for colt shows, harness and saddle horses, mules, cattle, sheep and hogs. See the floral hall exhibits. Three baby shows on Saturday. See the $300 sweepstakes saddle horse ring on Thursday; the $100 roadster ring on Friday; the $500 gelding ring on Wednesday. A special premium of $30 will be given on Tuesday for the best suckling colt, to be shown to halter, conformation, style and action to be considered; $20 to first, $10 to second; no colt barred in this ring. Premiums are also offered for the best lady rider, best lady driver, fancy turn-out and quick hitching contest. Mule and pony races daily, with a fox chase on Tuesday and Saturday. Hamilton, secretary, or W. Hoffman Wood, assistant secretary.

MOUNTAINEERS ARE LEADING.

Maryland Writer Says They Are Rather to Be Imitated Than Pitied.

Mrs. G. Daingerfield, of Lexington, had recently a letter in the Springfield Republican headed: "Needs of the Mountain People."

It was another one of the many that sympathizing people are continually writing to the northern press, showing up what they call the pitiable condition of these people, and calling upon the Carnegies, Ogdens and Rockfellers of that section to come forth with kindergartens, playgrounds, sanitariums and school farms for their uplift.

These would-be saviors of the mountaineers want to see them plunged into all the educational fads and follies of modern civilization, that they may then apply all the modern nostrums for their health and salvation. As the editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal and magazine writers have long since said, "these people want nothing so much as to let alone and not misrepresented by people who do not know or understand them."

These people show with their families of from ten to twenty children, the kind of stuff they are made of physically. They see God in the clouds and have Him in their minds, which is more inspiring than any knowledge of Him through memorized book knowledge. They are as a whole, happy and contented, and unlike the highly educated people of other sections, they are not burdening the country with problems calculated to draw it down to chaos and socialism.

It is time for these sympathetic writers to turn their attention wholly to the social problems that beset the centers they point to as examples for the mountaineers to follow. Have the mountaineers any race suicide problem? Have they a tramp problem? Have they an unemployed problem? Have they a divorce problem? Have they a wreck problem? Have they a pure food problem? Have they an indigestion problem? Have they a get-rich-quick problem?

In fact, have the mountaineers one of a score of serious problems that beset the best parts of the country? With the answer being no, it is time to let them alone and take up some of our own troubles.

Many Uses of Tomatoes.

TOMATO SOUP.

Stew ten large tomatoes in a quart of water with two onions, a piece of ham fat or three or four slices of bacon, one tablespoon of sugar, one teaspoon each of salt and pepper, let boil fifteen or twenty minutes, then strain and serve or cool and heat when desired.

FRIED GREEN TOMATOES.

Use large green tomatoes or partly green, slice in thick slices, dip in corn meal, then fry tomatoes a rich brown, put on a large meat platter, garnish with the bacon. If desired one may have three large onions sliced, fry after the tomatoes and spread over the dish.

TOMATO SAUCE.

Peel ten large tomatoes, cut up with three or four onions, a piece of ham fat or bacon, tablespoon each of sugar and salt, a pinch of pepper, boil twenty minutes, strain, put back on fire and thicken with two spoonfuls of corn starch. This makes a delicious sauce for spaghetti or cold meat. It may be served hot or cold.

TOMATOES AND CHEESE.

Peel six large tomatoes, cut up with one onion, boil five minutes, add one teaspoonful each of salt and sugar; put half in a baking dish, sprinkle with bread crumbs and grated cheese; then rest of tomatoes, a layer of bread crumbs and cheese, a few lumps of butter; back a rich brown.

GREEN TOMATOES PICKLE.

Slice twelve large green tomatoes with twelve onions; let stand in salt water over night; then drain; add one quart of vinegar, eight cups of sugar, three teaspoonfuls each of cinnamon and cloves, and a handful of bay leaves, put on fire and boil from one to two hours until thick; take off and put in crocks or jars and seal.

STUFFED TOMATOES.

Use a large knife, cut off the tops of eight large, firm tomatoes, scoop out the centers and mix them with one half cup of bread crumbs, a little onion juice or two onions chopped fine, one cup of cold chopped meat, one teaspoonful each of salt and sugar, a pinch of pepper, and one green pepper chopped fine if desired. Fill the tomatoes with this and lay a slice of bacon on each one, place them in a large pan with a cup of water and bake one hour. Take out and place on a large meat platter, set the pan back on the fire, pour in one cup of milk. Dissolve one tablespoonful of corn starch in half a cup of water; thicken the gravy with this and pour around the tomatoes.

Good Roads and Prosperity.

BY ELLA WHEELER WILSON.

Copyright, 1909, by American Journal-Examiner.

Here is a very true bit of philosophy, taken from a personal letter written by Albert K. Owen, of Baldwinsville, N. Y., that man who is forever struggling to open wider paths for the masses to tread down to prosperity and happiness:

"A people who do not see visions have lost the only spark of religion that is worthy of a thought. It is the realization of dreams that has blessed the world. The American nation does not see visions; but there are ways to make a vision of today a reality of tomorrow; the broad multiways that will lead to heaven on earth and to homes for millions of people."

Then Mr. Owen proceeds to explain his magnificent idea of national and state auto highways, which would give work to 6,000,000 people.

"Auto highways stand for the combination of roads, rails, tracks, ways and paths—roads for wagons, rails for electric cars, steel-plate tracks for fast automobiles, cement ways for slow automobiles, cement ways for cycles, cement ways for roller skates and cement and brick paths for pedestrians."

"In all there are 11 thoroughfares. The cement way for roller skates is in the middle, and is 10 feet wide. On it skaters can move both ways. The other thoroughfares are each 20 feet wide, separated by fences and hedgerows. Traffic and travel are separated by these thoroughfares into six general classes, and within each thoroughfare its respective class is again separated by putting the slow and the fast traffic, the freight and the travel, the business man and the pleasure seeker on different rails, tracks, ways or paths; and, to still better guard from accident, all vehicles go out on one set of thoroughfares and come back on another set."

"Auto highways will run straight, east and west, north and south. The main series of thoroughfares, with their park, flower and shade areas and footways, and with their zones for cottages, schools, factories and amusements, will be 1,430 feet wide except in mountains and excessively hilly districts, where thoroughfares have to be bunched, and where there have to be long tunnels and extensive bridging. The total width of the right of way or of the reservation, including thoroughfares and garden, farm and forest zones, is one mile."

"Locations being acceptable, at distances of every 25 miles along auto highways there will be a manufacturing entertainment center one mile square; and equidistant between these there will be industrial college centers one mile square. At exceptional locations, say, on river banks, seashores and commanding elevations, there will be garden cities."

"Within a month after the national auto highways are started the 6,000,000 of unemployed persons in the United States (1909) can be gathered together in the cities and elsewhere, transported, settled in tented villages, clothed, fed and started in permanent, diverse and soul-inspiring occupations; and under an order and management that every man's work of eight hours will add at least $10 to the nation's wealth."

A vision, surely, as yet; but what a vision! Think what this would mean to America; and when we say that, we say the whole world; for is not America the port of all men, from all lands? Speaking of Mr. Owen's idea, Mr. N. E. Dawson says:

"Without her matchless highways Rome would probably never have become mistress of the then known world. See Gibbon, Vol. I, Chap. III, p. 100. But superior facilities in communication imply necessarily superior degrees of general enlightenment."

"The historian tells us, as you will see, that the great chain of communication from the northwest to the southeast point of the Empire was drawn out to the length of 4,080 Roman miles."

The Hon. John H. Bankhead says:

"Good roads are revenues of progress, the best proof of intelligence; they aid the social and religious advancement of the people; they increase the value of products; they save time, labor and money; they are the initial sources of commerce, which swell in great streams and flow everywhere, distributing the products of our fields, forests and factories. The highways are the common property of the country, their benefits are shared by all, and they are needed by all; they benefit all and all should contribute to them."

Every philanthropist, every worker for humanity, every citizen who cares for his country and his fellow men ought to collaborate with Mr. Owen in his splendid idea, until it becomes a plan and a purpose, and a reality. There might be a magnificent "People's Trust" formed, which would set this great idea into action, and render all other trusts futile.

Something About Elephants.

People who really knew nothing about it used to say that elephants never lie down to sleep. This is not true at all. They have been known to stand for twelve months without once lying down to sleep. This is regarded as want of confidence in their keepers and of longing to regain their liberty, for when they are perfectly at ease and reconciled to their fate they will lie down on their sides and sleep peacefully.

A Pasha of Three Tails.

How many of the boys and girls know what a "pasha of three tails" is? That seems a queer title to give to an officer of high rank, and yet it is the custom in Turkey. A pasha is the governor of a province or a military commander, and his relative rank is indicated by the number of horse tails borne on his standard—one, two or three tails, as the case may be, three tails being the highest rank.

Pronunciation of Cheviot.

Many persons have fallen into the error of pronouncing the word "cheviot," the name of a certain kind of cloth, out of which clothing is made, as if it were spelled "cheviot." The right way is to give the "c" the same hard sound that it has in "chief." The word comes from a valuable breed of sheep in Scotland, which in turn are named after the Cheviot hills.

Reassuring Him.

"The views I express about religion," said the tiresome controversialist, "may seem rather too broad to most people, but—"

"Not at all," replied the candid man. "To most people they seem not so broad as they are flat."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

To Be Avoided.

"An actor should lose himself in his part, shouldn't he?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Stormington Barnes. "But it shouldn't be carried too far. Many of us lose ourselves in our parts so completely that the public can't see us at all."—Washington Star.

Reflection.

Leading lady—Did you notice the Johnny in the third box? For one solid hour he gazed intently at my diamonds.

Comedian—Yes, I heard several people commenting on his glassy stare.—Chicago News.

A Hard Fighter.

"I always understood that Captain Shirk had quite a fighting record."

"So he has. He always fights fiercely against any attempt to have him assigned to duty in the field."—Philadelphia Press.

Goes to the Bottom.

Greene—Indeed!

"Yes; I saw him under his automobile again today."—Yonkers Statesman.

PAY DAY SECRETS.

The Whole Office Force in Fear After the Ghost Walks.

About 150 per cent of that portion of mankind is haunted by the fear that the life ambition of every other person is to get a look at the figure behind the dollar mark on the obverse side of its pay envelope.

This fear is the F. Gotch of Pan-ville. The office boy who labors faithfully—to sidestep labor—and the general superintendent of the whole works waltz down to pick up the fruits of their toil with this horrible fear frisking around them. Most paymasters are honorable men. Not only do they keep mum, but they slide the pay envelope out with its face to the marble slab. This, however, is generally performed as though the paymaster had to take it all out of his own pocket and with an air which says:

"How can you compromise your conscience by taking so much?"

Methods of disposing of the pay envelope vary. Here are some employed by the office boys of a large Kansas City concern:

The Henry method, invention of Henry, the $3.58 a week office boy: Tear the pay envelope into ribbons about four-sixteenths of an inch wide, insert in mouth, chew with teeth until former envelope becomes a pulpy mass, then roll into paper wad and insert in right shoe. Inter in some deserted spot, not necessarily a cemetery. Note.—If you suspect any one of watching it is better to swallow the strip with the telltale numerals on it.

Method employed by Cherry-smith, assistant shipping clerk, ($8.98): Tear or clip envelope until it resembles the confetti of commerce. Put into pocket and hold until you go home in afternoon. Then take in hand and carefully drop 2 (two) bits from the car window at alternate street corners.

What is considered the one absolutely sure method, discovered by George Peas, an obscure salesman ($10): Take envelope in right hand. Strike match—any brand will do—on trousers or sole of shoe. Ignite envelope and cremate.

It is one of the traditions of this same company that every employee, from the general manager down, be paid by the envelope system. The manager gets his at 10:30 o'clock on Saturday morning. It comes in a tailor made envelope that looks like a paper mail sack. It is a popular Saturday recreation for employees to happen along to see the manager as he opens it. Manager, after filling his pockets with currency, puts the envelope in his inside vest pocket. But he must dispose of it. Let us watch him.

At quitting time he descends to where his motorcar and imported chauffeur await him.

"Go home by way of the Cliff drive, Armand."

As they reach the quieter portions of the city the manager points out to the chauffeur what seems to be an airship over in the neighborhood of Saturn. As the unsuspecting driver looks the manager slips the pay envelope from his pocket. When they reach the drive the manager says:

"Let 'er out a notch and watch your turns!"

Then, eying the indifferent chauffeur closely, he tears little pieces from that envelope and pushes them mercilessly over the cliff. He is usually nervous for a day or two after dissecting the envelope, for there is a chance of being followed by some one who may gather the pinhead bits together, piece out the envelope and—nab the secret!—Kansas City Times.

A Royal Fowl.

In England under an old law still in force the swan is a royal fowl, as whales and sturgeons are royal fish. All swans the property whereof is not otherwise definable when within the British dominions belong to the crown by virtue of this prerogative. When swans are lawfully taken into the possession of a private person such person may be said to have a property in them, but if they be at liberty they belong to the crown. Formerly it was necessary for persons who wished to keep these "royal fowls" to obtain a swan mark, which was granted by the crown and which could not be legally impressed without grant or prescription.

The Wit of Evarts.

Once when twitted on his small size by a statesman of the strenuous type the late William M. Evarts retorted: "That remark proves what I have always asserted—that in your eyes measures were more important than men."

To another critic, who found fault with his habit of stringing out a whole paragraph without a break by the use of parenthetical clauses, he said cheerfully, "I have noticed that criminals object to long sentences."

SMYRNA CARPETS.

Where They Are Woven and How They Are Transported.

The celebrated "Smyrna carpet" is not made in Smyrna. It is a product of the vilayet of Aidin, of which Smyrna is the capital. The chief places of manufacture are the vilages of Uschak, Koule, Ghiardis, Makri, Melessos, Kirkagatsch, Akar and Demirdji. The industry gives employment to thousands of needy people, especially women, who are obliged to do the work almost entirely, while the men spend their time in the coffee houses drinking strong coffee and smoking numberless cigarettes, all in true oriental fashion. Little girls are compelled to take up the work early, at seven or ten years of age at the latest, and they keep at it unceasingly until they go to their graves.

The market for the wools is held every Thursday from dawn to sunset in the bazaar of Uschak, which is then filled with purchasers, who have arrived on buffaloes, camels, donkeys and other picturesque beasts of burden. The spun wools are not dyed by the weavers themselves, but by special dyers.

More than 3,000 female weavers are employed at Uschak in the preparation of carpets. The operators are generally members of the same family, but there are a number of girls who earn about 6 to 7 cents per day. The Ghiardis carpets are generally smaller than those of Uschak. Very fine prayer carpets, closely woven and of harmonious colors, are produced in imitation of the Persian carpets.

The carpets are made into bales of 280 pounds each and covered with goatskins. The caravans pass the night in the open country at the foot of some hill, the drivers under tents and the camels and their loads in the open air. Very large carpets, too heavy to be packed, are folded and thrown across the backs of the camels in the form of a covering. When the carpets arrive in Smyrna they are spread out, beaten, broomed and repacked in bales weighing 500 to 600 pounds each for exportation.—Consular Report.

Dreaming a Winner.

I dare say that every year one or more people dream of the Derby winner, because thousands of people are guessing in their dreams, and two or three guess right. Take the Favonius case. A man came to an acquaintance of mine and said, "What is the Latin for the southwest wind?" "Favonius," said my friend. "That's the name," said the other. "I dreamed last night that Favonius won the Derby, but I could only remember that southwest wind was the English of the word when I awoke." There was no Favonius in the list of horses, but on reaching the race course the men found that the Zephyr colt had been newly named Favonius. Probably the name Zephyr (west wind) colt had been converted into Favonius (southwest wind) in the sleeping mind of the dreamer, though when awake he could not remember the Latin word for southwest wind. Favonius won. The dream was a good guess, no more.—Independent.

Seats in a Train.

"Why do the seats on the right hand side of a car almost always fill up before those on the left?" inquired a man on board a local suburban train just before it pulled out of the station the other evening. "I've been taking this trip for the past three months now, and I've noticed the tendency to favor the right side without finding out the reason." Two other men of the same party gave it up as a conundrum, though they admitted it as a fact. They asked the conductor when he came through. "Well," said the old and experienced railroader, "when people aren't guided in their choice of seats by a desire to get away from the sun they are apt to think of collisions and accidents, and their first thought is not to be on the side nearest the track for trains going the other way, so that if anything happens on that track they won't get a side swipe."—Philadelphia Record.

Anxious to Oblige.

The manager of a telephone exchange recently gave employment as an operator to a young woman whose previous employment had been in a department store. The girl seemed so bright and willing and possessed such a clear and distinct voice that the manager resolved to give her a trial.

The newcomer, who was all amiability and willingness, rapidly learned her new duties, but one day an incident occurred that betrayed her department store training.

In answer to a ring she had asked sweetly, "Number, please?"

"Let me have 325," said the patron.

"I am sorry that 325 is busy just now," said the girl, "but I can let you have 323 or 326."—New York Herald.

Enlarging Your Business

If you are in business and you want to make more money you will read every word we have to say. Are you spending your money for advertising in haphazard fashion as if intended for charity, or do you advertise for direct results?

Did you ever stop to think how your advertising can be made a source of profit to you, and how its value can be measured in dollars and cents. If you have not, you are throwing money away.

Advertising is a modern business necessity, but must be conducted on business principles. If you are not satisfied with your advertising you should set aside a certain amount of money to be spent annually, and then carefully note the effect it has in increasing your volume of business; whether a 10, 20 or 30 per cent increase. If you watch this gain from year to year you will become intensely interested in your advertising, and how you can make it enlarge your business.

If you try this method we believe you will not want to let a single issue of this paper go to press without something from your store.

We will be pleased to have you call on us, and we will take pleasure in explaining our annual contract for so many inches, and how it can be used in whatever amount that seems necessary to you.

If you can sell goods over the counter we can also show you why this paper will best serve your interests when you want to reach the people of this community.

Don't Use a Scarecrow

To Drive Away the Mail Order Wolf

You can drive him out quickly if you use the mail order houses' own weapon—advertising. Mail order concerns are spending thousands of dollars every week in order to get trade from the home merchants. Do you think for a minute they would keep it up if they didn't get the business? Don't take it for granted that every one within a radius of 25 miles knows what you have to sell, and what your prices are. Nine times out of ten your prices are lower, but the customer is influenced by the up-to-date advertising of the mail order house. Every article you advertise should be described and priced.
